ONCE IS ENOUGH TO SEE

Gustave Dore's portrait of Dante is worth seeing—once. But once is enough. Some such look you notice on the faces of those who have suffered, and still suffer, much physical pain; people subject to rheumatism, gout, neuralgia, periodic headache, lumbago, or pain from some old lesion. This pain-habit puts its marks on them, as the custom of handling ropes crooks a sailor's fingers; or as too much riding of a bicycle stamps a worried expression on certain faces. No wonder people said of the Italian poet as he passed along, "There goes

THE MAN WHO NEVER LAUGHS."

The complaints above named all yield to the action of Benson's Porous Plasters, and quickly too. Not only those, but colds and coughs, kidney and liver affections, all congestions and muscular strains, diseases of the chest, asthma and all ailments which are open to external treatment. It is frequently said that Benson's Plaster is Pain's Master. It cures when others are not even able to relieve. For thirty years the leading external remedy. The old-style plasters, as well as salves, liniments, oils, etc., have little or no efficacy as compared with it. Use it. Trust it. Keep it in the house. Ask for Benson's Plaster; take no other. All druggists, or we will prepay postage on any number ordered in the United States on receipt of 25c. each.

THE PICKED LOCK

A Tale of Old Vienna.

Of all the gay Viennese who passed us on the crowded Graben there was none to me as fair as my pretty country woman, Maud Wemyss of Baltimore, whom I had the pleasure of escorting. I had made her acquaintance over the leaden sarcophagus of a defunct emperor in the vault of the Augustine convent, where the bones of Austria's rulers are on exhibition. Nobody could blame me for falling in love with her, because she really is the sweetest girl on earth.

So we were walking toward St. Stephen's cathedral in charge of a paid cicerone. He was a little old man with a wrinkled face and a nose that had, like his shabby genteel clothes, seen better days. Now it was by no means an ornament unless considered from the purely coloristic standpoint. He knew nearly everything about the brilliant city by the "blue Danube," and where his knowledge was inadequate his imagination tided him over.

Suddenly Miss Wemyss halted before a strange object, and with a little feminine exclamation of surprise she asked: "Why, what is this thing for? It seems to be the stump of a tree all covered with nails." And so it was. So closely together had the nails been driven that not a piece of the wood as large as a pinhead even was visible on the entire surface.

Our guide at once assumed the customary attitudes of his guild in action, which closely resemble the gyrations accompanying the spread eagle finish of a stump speaker's oration.

And this is the story he told of the nail studded tree:

Several hundred years ago there lived a blacksmith on this spot which is occupied by a stockbroker's office now. In those times a blacksmith understood the working of iron in all its branches, and it was as easy for him to hammer the metal into graceful curves and flowers for altar railings as it was to forge a horseshoe or the point of a hunting spear.

Our blacksmith had a beautiful daughter, whose hand was sought after by all the young men for miles around, for she was as good and pure and gentle as her eyes were blue. Her hair was golden, and her cheeks were like the glacier snow upon which the morning sun had cast his virgin rays.

Her father guarded her as jealously as the dragon of old ever did guard fair lady, and many were the silent tears poor Kathi wept in the solitude of her "Kemenate" where she had been locked up. Her only joy was the bunch of fragrant flowers which she was always sure to find upon the outer sill of the only window in her room. No matter how early she awoke, these sweet messengers of kindly thought were sure to be in their usual place.

Often and often did she arise with the sun, hoping to catch a glimpse of her unknown friend, but she was invariably disappointed.

At last one morning she failed to find the flowers. She dressed hurriedly and concealed herself behind the window curtain. She watched for the person whose gift she felt certain to receive yet, and her expectation was not futile.

But what was her surprise and disappointment when, instead of the fine young fellow which her fancy had pictured, she beheld a poor, deformed creature with a large hump on his back.

Her first feeling of horror found vent in a little exclamation, but there was something so sad and pleading in his eyes, that were uplifted to hers, that she felt sincerely ashamed to have exhibited any sign of annoyance.

"Was it you who brought me all those lovely flowers?" she asked in a kindly voice as he was trying to conceal a nosegay he held in his hand.

In answer he blushed like a schoolgirl and nodded.

"I thank you for them very much," she continued. "They have been the only pleasure in my monotonous life. But how did you know that I was locked up in here?"

"I have heard you sing occasionally," he answered, "and from the sound of your voice I knew you were young and beautiful and, alackaday, unhappy withal, and because I—I—because I felt—sorry—for you I brought you some flowers from my mother's garden. But please don't tell master about it, for he would surely"—

Just then a handsome young fellow, lithe as a doe and graceful as a young cherry tree, appeared on the scene, and, greeting the hunchback affectionately, he exclaimed:

"Brother, I have been looking for you this last hour. Mother is full sorely vexed about your absence." Then, looking up, he noticed the young girl at the window just as she withdrew her blushing face.

He bowed to her with courtly grace and raised his jaunty red cap, and she, of course, could not but return the courtesy.

Every morning after this incident there were two nosegays on the windowsill instead of one.

In time the old blacksmith yielded to the importunities of his wife and her friends and agreed to look around for a husband for his daughter.

According to the customs of the time, his son-in-law would have to be also a blacksmith. In order to make sure that Kathi's future liege lord was a master of his trade the old man constructed an ingenious lock, which he put on the door of his daughter's chamber.

Whoever had attempted in vain to open the door had to drive an iron nail into a certain tree, but the prize of the successful man was to be the hand of the fair Kathi.

But if none should succeed in unlocking the door then the maiden was to enter a convent as soon as the tree was covered to a man's height.

Full many a swain whose heart had been filled with hope left sorely disappointed after an unsuccessful attempt, and the tree was rapidly being studded with nails.

Kathi was sadly pining away in her solitary prison, partly because she could not go out into the green wood and down to the rippling river, but mostly because she loved the hunchback's brother, whom she saw sometimes from her window at daybreak.

The poor hunchback loved her with the ardor that hopelessness alone can give to love, and he worked day and night on a key to open the intricate lock. When he saw how rapidly the day drew near when Kathi would either be the bride of another or go into a nunnery, he worked with redoubled vigor.

After a year and a day the tree had been covered to a man's height, and there was only room for one more nail.

So the dwarf presented himself before the blacksmith and asked for permission to try his art. The request was granted, though reluctantly, and the old man wished he had extended the limit by two or three feet, because he saw now no alternative but that of having his daughter married to a deformed man or losing her forever. But he was a man of his word and never took water.

The entire family went in procession to Kathi's door to watch the fateful trial. Naturally the little hunchback felt somewhat nervous, and his hands trembled, partly from excitement, partly from joyful anticipation, for he was almost if not quite sure of success.

He inserted the key into the lock and twisted it slightly. A slight snap as of a spring relaxing answered him. A second twist and a second snap, and a third and a fourth and then a sudden pull. The dwarf took a deep and long breath and paused for a moment to wipe the perspiration off his brow.

Then he turned the knob. It yielded, and the door opened slowly. The dwarf hastened into the room.

It was empty.

Suspecting a trick, he turned around with flashing eyes, but the expression of genuine surprise and alarm in the faces of the others convinced him that no deceit had been practiced upon him.

The blacksmith was the first to regain his presence of mind. After hurriedly looking about him he espied the open window. Fastened to it was a rope ladder made of bits of bedclothes. The old man looked out. At first he could not discern a trace of the fugitive. After some minutes he could distinguish his own spotted horse galloping at full speed toward the distant woods.

On its back were the fair Kathi and the hunchback's brother.

Need it be told that the father forgave them, only too delighted to regain his daughter without seeing her married to the dwarf? The latter swallowed his disappointment like a man and consoled himself with the thought that Kathi remained at least in the family.

The two young people lived like turtledoves and delighted in telling how "love laughs at locksmiths."

How the Kangaroo Fights.

The kangaroo fights with great address and intelligence, and if he can find a stream or water hole in which to await his foes he will station himself waist deep in it and, pushing the dogs under one by one as they swim out to attack him, either drown them outright or compel them to retire for want of breath. Against human enemies, armed only with clubs or stirrup irons, the kangaroo often shows himself a clever boxer, warding off blows very dexterously with his fore paws and now and then making forward bounds, with rapid play of his dangerous hind feet, which are difficult to avoid.

AIDING THE MEMORY.

The Old Lady's Method Was Complicated, but Effective.

Grandma Hollis pushed her spectacles far down on her nose and looked over their tops with mild reproof.

"Now, Robert," she said convincingly to her grandson, "I don't like to hear you say you can't remember dates, because it's an easy thing to do if only you set about it the right way. Now, when anybody asks me about the date of anything I just use my simple method, and it never fails, and I'm sure nobody could have a worse memory than I have, dear child."

"What's your method, grandma?" asked the boy, ready for any suggestion which might help him in his weakest spot.

"Why, it's like this," said Grandma Hollis cheerfully: "There's the Declaration of Independence. I should never be sure of the year that occurred if it weren't for my method, but I think of your mother's marriage. That was in 1889. I remember that because the date is on the little ring your father gave me, and I look at it two or three times a day.

"Then I know she was twenty-one when she was married because it was the same age that I was when I was married, so that carries her back to—twenty-one from eighty-nine leaves sixty-eight. And she was eight years old at the time of the Centennial in Philadelphia. I know that because I got her a twisted wire figure eight pin at the exposition—and she lost it.

"Then, you see, eight added to sixty-eight makes seventy-six. That is 1876. Of course centennial means subtract a hundred, and there you have 1776, with no trouble at all, Robert!"

Grandma Hollis beamed with the joy of one who imparts rare wisdom, but Robert, although respectful, seemed depressed. — Youth's Companion.

A Sarcastic Professor.

One day in his classroom at the university at Berkeley Professor Bernard Moses began to illustrate a point he had been making by quoting at length a passage in French from one of the political economists of the University of Paris. A student ventured to interrupt, remarking that the recitation, however valuable, would have more significance for him if the professor should render it into English.

"Do you not speak French?" Professor Moses asked. "I regret to state that I do not," rejoined the student.

"In that case," replied the professor, preparing to continue with the quotation, "I should advise you to get up early some morning before breakfast and learn it."

A London Custom.

Since 1377 the aldermen of London have annually presented to the high officers of the state, such as lord chancellor, the lord chief justice, the home secretary and the foreign secretary, as well as certain officials of the city, pieces of cloth, which in the case of the town clerk reaches the maximum of twelve yards. This custom of guilds and corporations clothing their members led, it is said, to the origin of the liveries of the various companies.

A Nightmare

Gives point to the fact that excessive or irregular eating disturbs the digestion. Nightmare or night hag has it's day time correspondence in the undue fullness after eating, with the belchings and sour or bitter rising so often experienced after too hasty or too hearty eating.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures dyspepsia and other diseases of the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition. When these diseases are cured, the whole body shares in the increased strength derived from food properly digested and perfectly assimilated.

"Your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy have been of great benefit to me." writes (Prof.) Pleasant A. Oliver, of Viola, Fulton Co., Ark. "Before I used the above mentioned remedies my sleep was not sound; digestion bad: a continued feeling of misery. I now feel like a new man. Any one in need of medical treatment for nasal catarrh could do no better than to take treatment of Dr. R. V. Pierce. I know his medicines are all right in this class of diseases."

Sometimes a dealer tempted by the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines will offer the customer a substitute as being "just as good" as the "Discovery." It is better for him because it pays better, but it is not as good for you, if you want the medicine that has cured others, and which you believe will cure you.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse the clogged system from accumulated impurities.

PLANT TREES.

With the approach of spring and summer we begin to think more of our surroundings. When winter's dull russet mantle envelopes the earth our æsthetic sense is dull and dormant. There is nothing in our environment to appeal to us. With the coming of spring we take on new life. The fragrance of wild flowers and the sight of budding trees and waving green grass make us fully alive to the addition such beauties give to life. We are better for these things. Trees and flowers, sunshine and blue skies, make life worth living. Let us have them, we say, as long as the season permits. So we come to give our attention to gardening, cultivating and irrigating in order to help nature produce all that is lovely, even though natural advantages be lacking. For this reason we see even in the heat of summer beautiful lawns, large shady green trees and many fragrant flowers to relieve the eye and gladden the heart in the midst of what would be without care, a desolate dry waste. Trees, above all, are the most welcome sight on a hot summer day. Especially in the country are they attractive. Shady avenues and well-sprinkled streets are the highest endorsements to a community's thrift and well-being.

Let us have them here. Sonoma has plenty of water and if property-owners would but take the time and pains to set out trees in front of their premises we would soon have a beautiful city. Now is the time for tree-planting, so we should not let another day go by without preparing to do our part in transforming the dusty, hot streets of summer into well-kept shady thoroughfares.

WILL HELP CALIFORNIA.

PRESS dispatches received last week indicated that the Southern Pacific had applied to the Trans-Continental Passenger Association for authority to put in low Colonist rates from the East to California.

The proposition did not prove acceptable to all lines, but in view of the immense benefit which must accrue to California from so great an influx of tourists, home-seekers, health-seekers and investors, the Southern Pacific took the bull by the horns and arranged with its connections to take independent action and the rate of $25.00 from Omaha, Kansas City and other Missouri river points will go into effect on March 1st for sixty days. The rate from Chicago will be $33.00, from St. Louis and New Orleans $30.00.

This action on the part of the Southern Pacific will help all sections of California, and particularly our own fair valley, and the opportunity ought to be seized by every member of the community to bring the advantages and attractions of our State prominently before the visitors.

THE March issue of the Overland Monthly opens with a rousing story of Central America by John Fleming Wilson. "In the American Style" is its title, and it tells in maudlin sentimentality, but with magnetic realism, of a heroic example of the Yankee spirit of fairness. Mr. Wilson's work is gaining recognition, and "In the American Style" will be broadly read. The story is beautifully illustrated.

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

"Washington, the brave, the wise, the good; Washington, supreme in war, in council and in peace; Washington, valiant without ambition, discreet without fear, confident without presumption"—it is his birthday that we celebrate to-day. The name of Washington is one of those which become more sacred in the gratitude of new generations as it falls deeper in the shadows of the past. Time cannot efface the memory of so noble a patriot from the minds of the American people. They do not forget that so strong a structure as the United States Government could not have risen but on the most carefully constructed foundation. Washington was foremost not only in the laying of such foundation and upbuilding of such a structure but he cleared the ground and made possible all the honor, respect and prestige we, as a Nation, enjoy to-day.

Work so lasting endures for all time. With its growth in magnificence a living monument is reared to him whom we claim as the father of our country. The American debt to him helps to make every American loyal. Even those who come to our shores from foreign monarchies join in the allegiance, for they are not unmindful of the author of liberty and his great work.

America, the haven of rest and freedom, has kept its doors open to the world because its internal administration was so wisely planned and well ordered. The administrative machinery is pliable and with the fires of patriotism so deeply inspired by such men as Washington it gives promise of life eternal.

If a country but produce one great man and that man be a patriot that country may well rejoice. The lesson taught by such a man as Washington is the inspiration of young America and in it lies the possibilities of the republic.

Woman's Club Ball

The Woman's Club gave another of its delightful benefit balls last night. Belles and beaux and chaperones gathered together for a jolly good time and amid pretty decorations of flags and ferns danced away an all too short evening. The music furnished by San Francisco parties, was catchy and up-to-date, and added much to the merry whirl. There were a bevy of charming girls all tastefully gowned and dances with them were at premium. At midnight there was a lull in the dance while the merry-makers went to supper, but afterwards dancing was resumed and the delightful affair did not break up until 2:30 this A. M.

Stop the Blight

It is a sad thing to see fine fruit trees spoiled by the blight. You can always tell them from the rest. They never do well afterwards but stay small and sickly.

It is worse to see a blight strike children. Good health is the natural right of children. But some of them don't get their rights. While the rest grow big and strong one stays small and weak.

Scott's Emulsion can stop that blight. There is no reason why such a child should stay small. Scott's Emulsion is a medicine with lots of strength in it—the kind of strength that makes things grow.

Scott's Emulsion makes children grow, makes them eat, makes them sleep, makes them play. Give the weak child a chance. Scott's Emulsion will make it catch up with the rest.

This picture represents the Trade Mark of Scott's Emulsion and is on the wrapper of every bottle.

Some Idea

Some idea of the magnitude of the New York flower trade may be obtained from the costliness of the floral decorations on certain notable occasions. A million dollars is spent every year in New York on wedding flowers alone. To decorate a church like St. Bartholomew's, even with a marked degree of simplicity, costs at least $1,000. At Christmas and Easter the New York churches fairly bloom with lilies. One New York florist raises in his greenhouses 50,000 lilies for Easter decorations alone. At the balls given in New York the floral decorations are unrivaled in the world.

Palms, ferns and the other greens which are the bases of all decorations are on most occasions supplied by florists making a specialty of growing plants for that purpose. The class of plants fitted for decoration are often difficult of increase and slow of growth and are therefore more valuable than the common plants. They are rarely bought when used at public dinners or even private receptions, but are hired for about half their value.—Everybody's Magazine.

Out of Sight.

"Yes, I have a pretty big mouth, for a fact," admitted the candid man, "but I have learned to keep it shut, and that counts for something when you take your levels. I received a lesson when I was a small boy that I have never forgotten. I was born and brought up on a farm, and I had the country boy habit of going around with my mouth wide open, especially if there was anything unusual going on. One day an uncle, whom I had not seen for years, paid us a visit.

"'Hello, uncle!' said I, looking up at him with my mouth opened like a barn door.

"He looked at me for a moment without answering and then said:

"'Close your mouth, sonny, so I can see who you are.'

"I took the lesson to my heart and resolved that from that day I would not allow my mouth to conceal my identity."—Detroit Free Press.

Miserable Mothers.

CHILDREN ROBBED OF THEIR BIRTHRIGHT.

The most serious thing in life is maternity. The child who inherits weakness is handicapped for life in the struggle for existence. The weak and sickly mother surely devotes her offspring to misery and misfortune. The romantic idea of marriage is based on love and love alone. The scientific idea of marriage demands sound health as a basis of matrimony. The utter helplessness of love is written in a thousand experiences of young motherhood. The child, the mother would die for, cries in her arms, and she is too weak and worn to comfort it. She can do naught but weep in sympathy.

As surely as the most serious thing in life is maternity so the most necessary thing for the prospective mother is preparation. For preparation is possible. There is, in general, no need for the weakness and weariness so often associated with maternity. There is no need for the nervous anxiety, the prolonged birth pangs, and after enervation, so commonly experienced by mothers.

In this day, even women understand the training necessary for athletic exercise. They know that to successfully sustain the strain of outdoor sports they must prepare themselves by training. And yet the average woman will face the great strain of maternity without the slightest preparation for the extraordinary event before her. Nerves, muscles are all to be submitted to an extraordinary strain and yet there is no attempt to fit them for the ordeal.

PROPER PREPARATION.

The fact needs to be impressed on every woman that she can prepare for the strain of motherhood as she can prepare for any other extraordinary demand to be made upon the vital forces. The nature of this preparation is well set forth in the following letter:

"I take pleasure in informing you of the birth of a boy in perfect health, on May 18th, 1899," writes Mrs. L. E. Corti, of Waltonville, Pa., Box 25. "I cannot find words sufficiently strong to express to you my thanks, for the baby's coming was almost without pain, and when my husband arrived with the doctor the child was already born. The neighbors who were with me, and my husband and the doctor could not believe their eyes. Having suffered so much before I never believed myself able to be delivered of a living child. I tell everybody this happy event was due to the help of God and of your medicines. I shall never be without your medicines henceforth and shall never fail in recommending your 'Favorite Prescription.' I have used the medicines which you prescribed with the best results.

"Our hearts are full of gratitude to you for your medicines, which have given us the happiness of having a living child of our own, after so much suffering and disappointment.

"I recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to all young women who are in the same condition that I was in as one of the best remedies in existence. I have used eight bottles and find myself in perfect health. Accept my best wishes for your welfare to the end of your days."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been the means of preparing thousands of women for happy motherhood. It prevents or cures nausea, tranquilizes the nerves, encourages the appetite and induces refreshing sleep. It imparts great vitality and muscular vigor so that the baby's advent is practically painless. It gives the mother strength to give her child, and is an unrivaled tonic for nursing mothers.

WOMEN ARE SURPRISED

at the prompt and permanent benefit derived from the use of "Favorite Prescription." Its effects are not transient and temporary, but they conduce to a condition of womanly well being, which seems oftentimes like a renewal of youth, so marked are its effects and so lasting the vigor which it imparts.

Mrs. Orrin Stiles, of Downing, Dunn Co., Wis., writes: "I have been intending to write to you ever since my baby was born in regard to what you 'Favorite Prescription' has done for me. I cannot praise it enough, for I have not been as well for five years as I now am. In July last I had a baby boy, weight 11 pounds, and I was only sick a short time, and since I got up have not had one sick day. I have not had any uterine trouble since I got up. I was not only surprised myself but all my friends here are surprised to see me so well."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It corrects irregularity, dries disagreeable drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

Thousands of women have been surprised at the cures effected by the patient and persistent use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This medicine has cured diseases which have failed to yield to any other remedy. When doctors have declared a cure was hopeless, and when other medicines had been tried in vain, "Favorite Prescription" has brought about a lasting cure. There is no other put up medicine specially prepared for woman's use which has so wide and wonderful a cure of womanly diseases to its credit.

Sick people, especially those suffering from chronic diseases, are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free and so obtain without charge the opinion of a specialist on their ailments. All correspondence strictly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

The dealer who offers a substitute for "Favorite Prescription" does so to gain the little more profit paid on the less meritorious medicines. His profit is your loss, therefore accept no substitute.

Schley and Santiago

BY GEORGE EDWARD GRAHAM.

The intrepid Associated Press war correspondent, who was aboard the U. S. S. Brooklyn during the entire five months of the campaign. Illustrated with photographs taken by the Author during the fight.

The Most Sensational Book of the Day.

The true story of the famous cruise of the Flying Squadron under Commodore Winfield Scott Schley, including the blockade and destruction of the Spanish fleet, TOLD FOR THE FIRST TIME.

Contains an autograph endorsement and personal account of the battle by Rear-Admiral Schley.

"The facts of the story of the movements and operations of the Flying Squadron as the author tells them in this book are correct."
—W. S. SCHLEY.

An interesting narrative of facts. Explains the so-called "Retrograde Movement;" the "Loop," the "Coaling Problem," and settles conclusively every adverse ruling of the Court of Inquiry.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, when Governor of New York, said:—"Mr. Graham's story is the best account I have heard or read of the naval fighting during the war. It needed just as much courage to go about taking photographs as it did to work the guns."

THE NEW YORK HERALD says:—"Mr. Graham, in the telling of facts, leaves the reader free to make the deduction that several naval officers need a Court of Inquiry to re-establish their reputations, if they can be re-established."

No subject has ever been before the public that has interested everybody as the manner in which Admiral Schley has been treated, and the American people demand the full recognition of the Hero of Santiago. This book tells everything just as it occurred and as the eyewitnesses saw it. Book is selling like wildfire. Liberal commissions. Outfit and books now ready. Send seven 2-cent stamps for canvassing outfit. ACT QUICK. Now is the time to MAKE MONEY.

Price $1.50, $1.75, $2.25, $2.75, according to style of binding desired.

SONOMA, FEB. 22, 1902.

CITY OFFIGIAL PAPER.

FEBRUARY WEATHER.

Heavy Precipitation—Indications of Another Downpour.

February has been a stormy month this season. Robt. Hall, U. S. Signal Service Observer for the Sonoma Valley, under date of 20th inst., reports twelve rainy days. Another storm of marked disturbance appeared early Thursday morning, between one and seven o'clock, and a steady rain had fallen which measured 0.21 inches up to the latter hour. At that time the wind was fresh from the southeast, barometer 30 30, and indications good for the steady downpour which fell throughout the day.

Mr. Hall reports the rainfall for the first twenty days of February, ending at 7 A. M., Thursday, as follows :

February	Inches.
1st	0.25
5th	.25
6th	.08
7th	.35
8th	.52
9th	.09
11th	.84
12th	.06
14th	.56
15th	.98
16th	.15
30th	.21
Total for the month	4.34
Season	15.64
Same time last year	20.37

The season's rainfall is below the average, but in this section the ground is completely saturated to bedrock, which has somewhat retarded work in the fields, orchards and vineyards. Pruning is progressing, grain is in excellent condition, pasturage abundant and stock is doing well. Conditions are good for an average yield of deciduous fruit and the plowing of orchards and vineyards will commence with clear weather.

HORSE INJURED

Adam Adler's Trotter Cuts the Tendon of a Leg.

Adam Adler's trotting horse met with a serious mishap last Tuesday afternoon that came very near crippling the animal for life. While Mr. Adler was driving up the valley in a light rubber-tire buggy he attempted to turn to one side of the road to permit a rig coming from an opposite direction to pass by. In doing so the buggy upset and Mr. Adler and his companion, R. G Dixon, a San Francisco drummer, were thrown out, but fortunately escaped with a few slight bruises. The animal, finding himself free, dashed along the road at break-neck speed and turning down a lane leading to the Kearney ranch collided with a fence and was thrown heavily to the ground. Mr. Adler, who had picked himself up and followed after the horse, found him where he had stopped. The harness was removed and when freed from the buggy the animal was discovered to be badly crippled, owing to one of the tendons of a hind leg having been severed by coming in contact with one of the buggy wheels or some other object. It took several hours to get the horse on his feet and into town. Dr. Summerfield, the veterinary surgeon of Santa Rosa, was sent for and the animal is now under his care. He says it will be six or eight weeks before the horse will be able to stand upon the injured leg

Brought a Fair Price.

The twenty six acre tract of land belonging to the estate of the late Jacob G. Mayer, located on the west side of the railway track at Vineyard Station, was purchased by E. J. Griffith last Monday for $2050. The land, which had been offered for sale with other holdings belonging to the estate, had been appraised at $1800. There were only two bidders for the property, Mr. Griffith's competitor being August Roquie, who offered the appraised value of the land. No bids were received for the 27 acre lot on the east side of the railway track.

It is the intention of the purchaser to erect a roadside resort on the southeast corner of the tract and plant the balance in fruit trees.

Dr. Hunter Dead.

Dr. George Z. Hunter, a familiar figure in Glen Ellen for the past twelve or fourteen years, is dead. He passed away Monday evening after an illness of several weeks at the age of 53 years. He was a native of New York and the remains have been shipped to his old home in the East for interment. Dr. Hunter was a regularly graduated physician but gave up his practice years ago and took up his residence in Glen Ellen, where he lived the life of a bachelor on an income regularly remitted him. Dr. Hunter was a kind and genial gentleman and made many friends in the upper part of the valley.

County Bridge Swept Away.

During the big storm of last Sunday the county bridge which crosses Arrosoco creek, near the Wm. Burris ranch, was undermined by the raging torrent and a portion of the structure swept away. The creek at that point is now impassable. The bridge, which was an ancient affair and had about outlived its usefulness, will be replaced by a more modern structure. Supervisor Blair Hart came over from Lakeville, one day this week, to examine the wrecked bridge and make arrangements for the building of a new one.

Improvements at the California Hot Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Richards, the new owners of the California Hot Springs at Agua Caliente, are contemplating a number of improvements at that popular summer resort. A contract has already been let to S. Schocken of this place to bore a 7-inch artesian well to supply the bathing establishment on the place with a plentiful supply of water. The old three-inch well will also be re-bored and utilized. The work will be commenced under the superintendency of A. Baccala next week or as soon as the weather will permit.

Home from Alaska.

Hon. W. S. Staley of Kenwood has returned from Alaska. He carries a magnificent gold watch that was presented to him by the citizens of Juneau in appreciation of his worth as a man, and his honest, able and faithful services as a Deputy United States Marshal in that district. After serving four years he was reappointed, serving by request of his superior for a few months, when he resigned. Under the prohibitory law liquor was smuggled into Alaska, and was to be had anywhere for the price. Today, under a license ranging from $500 to $1500 a year, there are less saloons, and the territory derives a good revenue. Juneau had thirty-seven bottle saloons with a cache attachment for the reserve liquor, to day she has only fourteen. Mr. Staley will remain at Kenwood for a short time and may remove to Seattle, which is now reaping a rich harvest as the depot for Alaska and the rapidly developing State of Washington.—Sonoma County Farmer.

G. Mascioroni, the well-known and prosperous dairyman of Sears' Point, visited Sonoma Tuesday. Mr. Mascioroni, who is still suffering from the old wound in one of his thighs caused in a mix-up with mowing machine several years ago, we are pleased to state, is again on the mend. He expects to be able in a month or so to cast aside the cane he now carries to keep company with the crutches which he used for many months after the accident.

Anderson - De Bretteville Breach of Promise Case.

The Anderson - De Bretteville breach of promise case is now in full swing in Superior Judge Kerrigan's court, San Francisco. The trial is being watched with interest by many people in this valley who are acquainted with both parties to the suit. Several Sonoma people have already testified for both plaintiff and defendant and others will be put upon the witness stand to be badgered by the lawyers. The defendant's old mining partner, C. F. Anderson, son-in-law of G. H. Cornelius of this place, was a witness for the fair defendant Wednesday and the following day L. Quartaroli, the jovial landlord of the City Hotel, was put upon the rack and very ungallantly testified against the lady in the case. Miss de Bretteville asks for $50,000 damages with which to soothe her wounded affections. The defendant, who is a wealthy Klondiker, is making a vigorous fight to secure a verdict in his favor.

EL VERANO.

"YOU KNOW'S" RECORD OF HAPPENINGS.

A. W. Weaver was a visitor to the metropolis Saturday.

Miss Alvira Pelastre, after a visit of several weeks with relatives in this place, returned to San Francisco Saturday.

Mrs. J. Dutil, after spending several days in San Francisco visiting friends, returned to her home in this place Sunday evening.

Mr. A. Nevraumont, the genial proprietor of the El Verano Villa, will shortly erect a handsome up-to-date fence in front of his popular resort.

Felici Clerici will soon commence the erection of a new building on the lot he recently purchased in this place. It will be used as a roadside resort.

J. F. McLaughlin of San Francisco has purchased the Miller place above town and will engage in raising poultry. We wish him good luck in his new home.

R. A. Poppe, Joe B. Small, E. J. Griffith and L. Quartaroli of Sonoma boarded the Southern Pacific at this place Monday. They were bound for Santa Rosa to attend the sale of the Mayer ranch near Vineburg.

Among the contemplated improvements in our burg during the early spring months is the erection of a fine picket fence to take the place of the ramshackle arrangement that now surrounds the lot on which the Exchange Saloon stands.

Wm. J. Kearney lost a valuable mare Sunday night. The animal was attacked with lung fever some days previous to her death and was attended by veterinary surgeon Summerfield of Santa Rosa, who did all in his power to save the animal but without avail.

H. Mouyer, who recently purchased a fine piece of land in this place opposite the Sonoma road, will greatly improve his purchase as soon as the weather permits. He will engage in floriculture and will also raise vegetables for the market. Mr. Mouyer will prove quite an acquisition to our population.

A chicken thief has made his appearance in this vicinity. Among the victims of the midnight marauder is W. J. Minkel, the well-known carpenter of our town, whose hen roost was raided one night this week by this fancier of other peoples poultry. Mr. Minkle has his eye on the culprit and if he is again caught in the act he will be made to realize that chickens are a luxury in El Verano.

Not for want of saloons will the El Veranoite go thirsty this coming season, as the present number is to be increased by three. One of these will be conducted by Pinelli & Yenni, another by Felici Clerici and the third by Ferroggiaro & Frediana. Frank is regarded hereabouts as the pioneer saloon keeper of the burg, and it goes without saying that his royal presence will be felt in the struggle for patronage when the ball opens in the spring on the arrival of the first contingent of thirsty souls from the city by the Bay.

The citizens of El Verano who realize that the health of the town should be paramount to all other considerations are loud in their protestations against the action of one of our property-owners who has run a line of sewer pipe from his premises into a blind ditch right in the heart of the town. This will not only prove a menace to the health of El Verano during the summer months but may cause pleasure-seekers to give our resorts a wide berth. It is earnestly hoped that the offending property-owner will see the error of his way and devise some other method of disposing of his sewage. There is talk of evoking the aid of the County Board of Health to abate the nuisance.

As Joseph Dowdall of this place was driving along the county road Tuesday morning the axle of his cart broke and he was dumped unceremoniously into the middle of the road. The horse he was driving then struck out on his own hook in the direction of this place, where he was caught in front of Mullen's store by R. E. Mullen. The cart was minus a wheel but the snorting steed escaped without a scratch. When Mr. Dowdall arrived in town in quest of the runaway, which was shortly after the accident, he declared that when it occurred he was humming "The Girl I Left Behind Me." That was a horse on him. He now declares he will compose a new song, the title of which will be "The Cart That Left Me Behind."

An amusing incident took place Sunday afternoon in the southern suburbs of town. One of our citizens was engaged in driving down stakes for staking out stock in the middle of an unused road. Another citizen, observing the action of his neighbor, suddenly appeared upon the scene and objected to the road being converted into a pasture field and a war of words followed. While this harmless combat was going on a young woman made her appearance with a hammer and took a hand in the dispute by driving the stakes into the ground, but as fast as they were driven in they were pulled up by the objecting property-owner, who by the way is a member of the French colony of this place. The episode, which was witnessed by your correspondent without being seen by the parties to the dispute, was a veritable circus with a menagerie and side shows thrown in. The incident ended by the Frenchman winning out, and his stock is now contentedly browsing up and down the disputed road.

MOTHERHOOD

The greatest ambition of American men and women is to have homes blessed with children. The woman afflicted with female disease is constantly menaced with becoming a childless wife. No medicine can restore dead organs, but Wine of Cardui does regulate derangements that prevent conception; does prevent miscarriage; does restore weak functions and shattered nerves and does bring babies to homes barren and desolate for years. Wine of Cardui gives women the health and strength to bear healthy children. You can get a dollar bottle of Wine of Cardui from your dealer.

WINE OF CARDUI

143 Market Street, Memphis, Tenn., April 14, 1901.
In February, 1901, I took one bottle of Wine of Cardui and one package of Thedford's Black-Draught. I had been married fifteen years and had never given birth to a child until I took Wine of Cardui. Now I am mother of a fine baby girl which was born March 31, 1901. The baby weighs fourteen pounds and I feel as well as any person could feel. Now my home is happy and I never will be without Wine of Cardui in my house again. Mrs. J. W. C. SMITH.

A UNIQUE BIBLE.

One of the Art Treasures of the Congressional Library.

Perhaps the most beautiful volume among the 500,000 in the Congressional library at Washington is a Bible which was transcribed by a monk in the sixteenth century. It could not be matched today in the best printing office in the world. The parchment is in perfect preservation. Every one of its 1,000 pages is a study. The general lettering is in German text, each letter perfect and every one of them in coal black ink, without a scratch or blot from lid to lid.

At the beginning of each chapter the first letter is very large, usually two or three inches long, and is brightly illuminated in blue or red ink. Within each of these initials there is drawn the figure of some saint, or some incident of which the following chapter tells is illustrated. There are two columns on a page, and nowhere is traceable the slightest irregularity of line, space or formation of the letters. Even under a magnifying glass they seem flawless. The precious volume is kept under a glass case, which is sometimes lifted to show that all the pages are as perfect as the two which lie open.

A legend relates that a young man who had sinned deeply became a monk and resolved to do penance for his misdeeds. He determined to copy the Bible, that he might learn every letter of the divine commands he had violated. Every day for years he patiently pursued his task. Each letter was wrought with reverence and love, and the penitent soul found its only companionship in the saintly faces which were portrayed on these pages.

Sanitation In the Middle Ages.

The Greeks and Romans paid special attention to the physical culture of their youth, to public water supplies and baths, and Athens and Rome were provided with sewers early in their history.

During the middle ages sanitation received a decided check, and this was the most insanitary period in history. Most European towns were built compactly and surrounded by walls. The streets were narrow and winding, and light and air were excluded. The accumulation of filth was frightful. Stables and houses were close neighbors. The dead were buried within the churchyards or in the churches. Wells were fed with polluted water.

All conditions were favorable for the spread of infectious diseases, and in the fourteenth century alone the oriental or bubonic plague, the black death of recent historians, carried off a fourth of the population of Europe. The birth rate was much less than the death rate normally. The cities had to be continually repopulated from the country.

The Angels Came Too Readily.

A Georgia darky went out to an old field to "seek and pray."

It was dusk, and he knelt down and put up a long petition that the angels would come and minister unto him.

Presently he heard a flapping of wings behind him, and in a second he was making race horse time on the home road, where he jumped into bed and covered his head.

Suddenly there was a loud knocking at the door, and his startled wife cried:

"John, git up dar, fer de Lawd sake! De angels you been seekin' is come fer you!"

"Le'm stay dar," was the trembling answer. "Tell 'em thoo' de keyhole dat I ain't got no wing ter fly wid, en I too heavy ter tote!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Don't Talk Your Aches and Pains.

As soon as possible dismiss from the mind every suggestion that has to do with illness. If you have had an operation and it is over, let it glide into the shadowy background of memory. Do not dwell upon it. Do not talk about it. Cultivate thought about others, about the great round world, about its heroes and its martyrs, its battles and its victories, its happy homes and loving hearts, but utterly turn from the night side of suffering, except as you may relieve it, and dwell in the blessed sunshine. There is no sweeter thing on earth than to be one of God's light bringers and to make those about you stronger because you are uncomplaining. — Ladies' Home Journal.

Potatoes.

To test the quality of potatoes cut one in half and rub the two pieces together. If it is nice and mealy, they will stick together, and there will be a show of froth at the edges and on the surfaces, but water should not run out even under pressure. The color of the meat should be white or of a yellowish tinge. The opinion that entirely yellow potatoes do not boil well is not well founded, for there are some yellow varieties that leave nothing to be desired in this respect.

Mr. Wheeler Got Rid of His Rheumatism.

"During the winter of 1898 I was so lame in my joints, in fact all over my body, that I could hardly hobble around, when I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. From the first application I began to get well, and was cured and have worked steadily all the year.—R. Wheeler, Northwood, N. Y. For sale by F. Duhring. *

Drying preparations simply develop dry catarrh; they dry up the secretions, which adhere to the membrane and decompose, causing a far more serious trouble than the ordinary form of catarrh. Avoid all drying inhalants, fumes, smokes and snuffs and use that which cleanses, soothes and heals. Ely's Cream Balm is such a remedy and will cure catarrh or cold in the head easily and pleasantly. A trial size will be mailed for 10 cents. All druggists sell the 50c. size. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N.Y. The Balm cures without pain, does not irritate or cause sneezing. It spreads itself over an irritated and angry surface, relieving immediately the painful inflammation. With Ely's Cream Balm you are armed against Nasal Catarrh and Hay Fever.

Something That Will Do You Good.

We know of no way in which we can be of more service to our readers than to tell them of something that will be of real good to them. For this reason we want to acquaint them with what we consider one of the very best remedies on the market for coughs, and that alarming complaint, croup. We refer to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. We have used it with such good results in our family so long that it has become a household necessity. By its promt use we haven't any doubt but that it has time and again prevented croup. The testimony is given upon our own experience, and we suggest that our readers, especially those who have small children, always keep it in their homes as a safeguard against croup.—Camden (S. C.) ALL CASES OF

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.
F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:
BALTIMORE, Md., March 30, 1901.
Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.
About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.
I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.
I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours,
F. A. WERMAN, 730 S. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.
Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.
